

NAVIGATING LIFE TRANSITIONS PROGRAM

Week 6:

Coping Strategies and Building Resilience

Resilience is built, not born. Learn strategies to stay strong and adaptable in the face of change.

DID YOU KNOW?

Resilience is a skill you can develop over time. People who actively practice coping strategies, such as mindfulness, social connection, and problem-solving, are better equipped to bounce back from life challenges.

Reflective Exercise

Write about a time when you successfully coped with a difficult situation. What strategies did you use? How can you apply these strategies to your current or future challenges you may encounter?
